An Old Government Wagon That Followed Sherman on His March to the Sea.

Special to The Tribune.
ST. LOUIS, May 29.—Among the curious things exhibited at the World's Fair are an old army wagon and an ambulance that saw service in the Civil war. They occupy conspicuous places in the Government building and attract a great deal of attention. On this old wagon is a card reading:
"This wagon was used from 1861 to 1865 in the Army of the Potomac, when it was sent to Nashville, Tenn., from there to Chattanooga, Atlanta, Millidgeville, Millen, Columbia, Charleston, Goldsboro, Raleigh, Danville, Barkville, Richmond and Washington City, 400 miles, with Gen. Sherman, four years and nine months with the second division, Twentieth corps."
It is one of the old six-mule wagons so commonly used during the war for transporting supplies, baggage, etc. The ambulance displays a card reading: "Office wagon of Gen. George H. Thomas." It contains many compartments and pigeon holes for papers and books. These old relics are both out of date but are features of interest to thousands of visitors at the fair.

Kansas Governor Surprises Editor

William Allen White Appointed State Accountant, Without Salary, as a Bluff.

EMPORIA, Kan., May 29.—The position of State Accountant was offered to William Allen White by Gov. Bailey, as a result of an editorial written by Mr. White last week in which he declared that he would gladly accept the place of State Accountant without salary. The position was created by the Legislature of 1903, and pays $2000 a year. Gov. Bailey has never filled it, because he has not been able to find an accountant whom he believed qualified.
If Mr. White takes the place he will have access to all the accounts and records of all State officers, and can investigate any phase of the public business of any officer.

Alice Roosevelt Visited the Pike

Saw Strange Sights, and Said She Had More Fun Than in Month of Sundays.

ST. LOUIS, May 29.—Miss Alice Roosevelt did the Pike from end to end while here, with Congressman Nicholas Longworth and a party of friends, including Miss Irene Catlin, Miss Roosevelt's hostess.
They saw everything there was to be seen in five hours. They left their automobile at the entrance and started down the Pike on foot. In the building where the educated horse was entertained a crowd they were recognized, and the name was pronounced for the horse. With little hesitation the animal spelled out the Miss Roosevelt with small blocks of wood on which the letters were painted. Tantalizing applause followed, and news that Miss Roosevelt was coming went down the Pike, and everything was in readiness for her reception. Everywhere the party went the crowd increased, and once Congressman Longworth was obliged to use all his strength to keep his charge from being severely squeezed in the rush of people eager to see the President's daughter. Another time the Congressman barely kept Miss Roosevelt from being run over by a camel.
The Parisian dancers interested Miss Roosevelt little, but she was impressed by the talk given by a fortune teller, who offered her services. The fortune teller said Miss Roosevelt should soon marry a blonde multi-millionaire, but when it came to telling the visitor's name the seer was nonplussed, until another Oriental, who had been hearing things, prompted her.
When Miss Roosevelt returned to the Catlin home she declared that they had had more fun than in "a month of Sundays."

Novelist Wister Out of Hospital

Trained for Surgical Operation and Surrendered His Vermiform Appendix Without a Quiver.

PHILADELPHIA, May 29.—Owen Wister, author of "The Virginian," who has been operated on for appendicitis, is out of the hospital minus his vermiform appendix, but looking very much as if he were glad of it.
Mr. Wister was operated upon a month ago by Dr. Richard C. Hart. It was a nip and tuck between Mr. Wister and appendicitis as to which would corner which. Mr. Wister moved first and won the game. The manner in which he did it possesses a degree of interest.
Suspensions arose in Mr. Wister's mind a while ago that his appendix was plotting against him. His physician confirmed his notion, and told him that sooner or later he would be obliged to submit to an operation if he wanted to get the better of the appendix. The novelist concluded that he would prefer to undergo the ordeal sooner than later.
"All right," said the physician. "Go out in the woods somewhere and train for it. Get yourself fit physically, and between us we'll show your appendix a trick with a hole in it."
Mr. Wister took this advice. He departed for the South, took work and strict attention to his health. He walked, drove, rode, played golf and lived out of doors as much as possible.
When he came back to Philadelphia last month the physician looked him over.
"Couldn't kill you with an ax," was his verdict. "You'll go through it like a breeze. Any time you're ready, Mr. Wister, I am."
Mr. Wister was ready then. The operation quickly followed. There were no setbacks, his superb physical condition contributing to a rapid and uneventful recovery.

Few Russians in Korea.

SEOUL, Korea, May 29.—Continuous and conflicting reports concerning the movements of the Russians are being received from Korean sources with wild guesses as to the number of men seen. In reliable quarters here the present Russian strength in the province of Ham Heung is estimated at about 1000 men with twelve guns, who, it is anticipated, will be reinforced in the near future. The Cossacks claim that 600 cavalry and 4000 infantry are now following in their rear.
